SEOUL, Korea, 2 May - (UP) - Well organized guerillas battled their way into a village on American-occupied CHEJU Island and held it for three (3) hours today before they were beaten back by Korean Security Forces. U.S. Army observation planes reported after a flight over the island that three (3) villages were threatened by guerilla bands, believed led by Communists who fostered recent riots and isolated attacks on CHEJU Police Stations. Korean Police reinforcements who were rushed to CHEJU last week described today's attacks as the beginning of full-scale guerilla warfare. They said the raiders murdered at least seven (7) persons, four (4) of them women.
